QUARTERLY HIGHLIGHTS

After a strong start to the year, the Matrix Advisors Value Fund was down modestly in the third quarter of 2023, declining less than the S&P 500 and Russell 1000® Value Indexes. For the first nine months of the year, the Fund is up low double digits, nicely ahead of the Russell 1000 Value Index, net of fees, but trails the technology-heavy market cap weighted S&P 500 .

The portfolio continues to be led by many of last year's weakest stocks and sectors, although more stocks and sectors have contributed to the portfolio's performance since the beginning of June as the market rally broadened. Overall, the companies in the portfolio showed strong operating performance vs. expectations in their recent quarterly reports, impressive against frequent descriptions of the current economic environment as "tough."

We believe that the Fund is well-positioned to consolidate and add to its 2023 gains. We think the stocks trade at very attractive valuations that can expand as the market recognizes their solid performance. We look for many of the stocks that lagged in the first part of the year to emerge as the new leaders. Looking forward, we expect 2023 leadership areas like Consumer Discretionary, Technology, and Communications Services to move higher but at a slower pace, and laggards like Financials and Health Care to drive the portfolio higher.

On September 30, the average P/E multiple of the Fund's portfolio was 15.6x and 13.9x on 2023 and 2024 estimated earnings, well under the S&P 500's 19.4x and 17.3x estimated P/Es. The average embedded appreciation potential of the portfolio was at 49.9%, well above its long-term average. **
